January 6th was one of the greatest days in American history. We the People peaceably protested against the globalist, deep-state election fraud. Only antifa troublemakers and a few over-excited patriots went inside the Capitol building.

MAGA

▼ I was there, another reason some Patriots like myself went is was to overwhelm the Antifa goons, to stop the false flag, and to prevent the destruction of the historic artifacts and statues within the Capitol. The Capitol Police, in my eyes, were like firefighters standing around watching a building burn, while doing absolutely nothing. If MAGA didn't go in the buildings - the interior would've been completely vandalized, and the Statues of our forefathers would have been toppled, defaced, and completely destroyed, guaranteed.

▼ Thanks man. If I didn't move in when I had the chance - I would've regretted it for the rest of my life.

▼ Thanks. When we made it into the Rotunda I felt the Founders smiling down on us. Along w my dad (Vietnam Vet) n my grandfather(WW2 vet) who was in Bastogne when the Germans encircled the town and demanded their unconditional surrender...their response was "FUCKING NUTS!" Same as our response to the Globalists today! #NoRetreatNoSurrender

▼ Not really. It was the last good chance to save America from an illegitimate takeover and MAGA leadership blew it.

That people still try to distance MAGA from those who temporarily reclaimed the Capitol -and even give credit to our enemies- is pathetic. It was the only flicker of resistance to the coup, and people are so chastened by their MSM and RINO masters that they are desperate not to be associated with it. ▼

You never see our enemies take this hand-wringing 'it wasn't us' back foot stance, which is a large part of why they're currently winning so easily

-1 January 6th will be the day we realized we lost the nation. The day we had 3 million people and did nothing with it. The day we realize the unwashed masses are out of touch and unorganized even though it's never been easier to contact someone. The day we realized Trump was another globalist! "go home we have what we need!" What he needed was for the III% to oust itself and the FBI is doing the rest. The 6th will be remembered as the one shot we had to do something and didn't. The 6th will be remember as a flop. It's already a disappointing sour pull in my mouth that should have clued people into the fact that Trump was in on it.....but here we are. Still fucked because not one asshole on this page will accept that "maybe the billionaire, NYC raised, Hollywood star may have fucking been in on it."

Where is GOETUS to defend anyone? Deafening silence.....

Not one thing he did in office hasn't been undone by a pen in 90 days. Tell me what Permanent change Trump made? If you say "exposed it all" then you're part of the problem if you didn't know it was ALL swamp before Trump.

4 You are just like a bandwagon fan that gives up on his team when they are down a few points at half time. The final chapter has yet to be written and this story is far from over. I can't guarantee you how it will end, but we will not be going down like this. Whatever happens, January 6 will be a side note in a history book when this all plays out.

4 Even though I have a strong feeling you are just here to sow division, the simple fact that he is still very politically active makes your case moot. Saying he exposed it all is actually not part of the problem because to many, they had zero interest in government, now there is a massive MAGA movement in-witch I think is your problem and it scares the shit out of you so you have to come here to try to plant seeds. Wrong place deportee.

2 I agree with everything you said except Trump being another globalist.

I've been thinking about this every day. I was there, ready to go if Trump said the word couldn't let us to cross it. If he would have, he would have been impeached in 24 hours, arrested, and MAGA would have been over.

Pence had the chance to buy us time. He's the globalist shill who got what he wanted. 4 years to be an inside enemy against all of us and make sure we did nothing with our majority from 2016 to 2018. Pence, Ryan and McConnell played the game just enough to keep their base believing they were fighting for us when they were fighting for the status quo.

The U.S. as we knew it is over. July 4, 1776 - January 6, 2021.

Now we are the resistance in a literally occupation by our enemies. They control our military, our police, our justice department, our economy, and our election process.

We have pockets of strength in Florida and Texas, but we're being overrun there too. Breznev said the U.S. would be taken without firing a shot. He was wrong. Only one shot needed to be fired on Jan. 6 and that ended our pussified larp as Patriots who didn't bring our guns because we were waiting for some other plan to be unveiled.

We were the plan. We got what we deserve.

Now we have to fight our way back out of what's happened - with or without Trump leading us.
